

My Autobiography

My name is Viraj Agarwal and I was born in a small city in India called Meerut in 2006. Meerut was a very dirty polluted city, but still 2 million people lived there. I lived in Meerut for the first 8 years of my life. I came to NZ in 2008 for the first time but then my mum didn't want my brother to be born here so we went back to India. We came again to NZ in December 2014.

Me and my family came to NZ because we wanted to have a better life. In India there were only studies and no games so we wanted me to pursue my dream of being a cricketer.

In New Zealand I live in a house at Balmoral Road. It is a 3 bedroom house. My neighbours are Tamil and his sister and I love playing cricket with them. I go to a school called Maungawhau School and it is the best school I have been to.

In my whole life I have lived in 3 countries and I hope to go to India when I am 16 so I can be an Indian cricketer and live a long life.
